DECISION ON AN APPLICATION BY CHRISTCHURCH CASINOS LIMITED FOR APPROVAL OF NEW GAME MIXES

Introduction

1. Christchurch Casinos Limited ("CCL") applied to the Commission, under condition 9 of its operator's licence, for approval to amend the game mix Annex for the Christchurch casino. CCL applied to introduce 12 new game mixes, some of which will allow for the simultaneous deployment of Electronic Baccarat and Electronic Roulette.

Licence conditions

2. The relevant licence conditions are as follows:

CCL's operator's licence

6. The number of gaming tables in the Gambling Area shall not exceed 36.
9. The Licence Holder may operate on casino gaming tables the game types and game mixes specified in Annex A attached to this Licence. The Licence Holder shall obtain the prior approval of the Commission for any change to the game types and/or game mixes specified.
10. The approval of the Commission is required prior to the use of the operator of any electronic version of the game types specified in condition 9 above, or electronic aids or enhancements or changes to table game rules which create new wagering opportunities.

CCL's submissions

3. CCL submitted, in summary, as follows:
- (a) It wants to add 12 new game mixes, BQ-CB, to its game mix Annex.
 - (b) Some of the proposed game mixes are similar to existing game mixes, but the differences are key as they increase the number of games that are popular with players. Three Card Poker, for example, appears to be enjoying a resurgence in popularity.
 - (c) In a previous application leading to decision GC17/20, it sought Commission approval to deploy simultaneously and from a single physical gaming table, the games of Electronic Baccarat and Electronic Roulette. Following decision GC17/20, it has amended some of the proposed game mixes so that they total 35 physical tables, against its permitted maximum of 36 tables. Removing one physical table will allow it to provide both Electronic Roulette and Electronic Baccarat at the same time from a single physical table.
 - (d) It has mathematically compared the proposed game mixes with its benchmark game mix, game mix A, and concluded that, in the round, the proposed game mixes all offer fewer casino gambling opportunities.
 - (e) Although the mathematical calculations are not definitive, they are a strong indicator of the opportunities available pursuant to each game mix. New game mixes, and the benchmark game mix, are as follows:

Game mix	Player spaces	Overall opportunities
A	718	19214
BQ	696	14922
BR	690	15489
BS	690	15258
BT	676	14628

The Secretary's submissions

4. The Secretary submitted, in summary, as follows:

- (a) The application stems from earlier Commission decisions which permitted the deployment of Electronic Baccarat (GC17/20) and new floor plans (GC23/20).
- (b) While he has no concerns that the proposed game mixes will increase casino gambling opportunities, some adjustments are necessary.

Implementation of both Electronic Roulette and Electronic Baccarat

- (c) CCL wants to have both Electronic Roulette and Electronic Baccarat available at the same time utilising the existing 20 terminals and a single physical table; game mixes BW-CB reflect this. In that case, the number of table games permitted in those game mixes should be amended from "35" to "36" as 36 table games will be permitted.
- (d) This change will require some changes to the data in the Excel spreadsheets provided by CCL to the Commission.

Electronic table game rate of play

- (e) As noted in paragraph 36 of decision GC17/20, a game rule change was approved in 2017 which increased the rate of play for Electronic Baccarat from 18 to 29 games every 15 minutes. As the game rules permit a terminal to be connected to any electronic game available, the rate play used should be that of the fastest game available. In this case, the fastest game is Electronic Baccarat which has a rate of play of 29 games. While the increased game speed will increase the total gambling opportunities for each game mix, the increase will not exceed the opportunities permitted by regulatory benchmark game mix for Christchurch casino.
- (f) As the previously approved game mixes B-BP for Christchurch casino only permit Electronic Roulette, it is appropriate that the rate of play in those game mixes be kept at 18 rounds per 15 minutes, which is the accepted rate of play for that game.
- (g) While it is not necessary to change the current game mixes at the casino, the Commission should adjust game mixes at other casinos where Electronic Baccarat is available to reflect the higher rate of play. This could be done when the casinos apply for new game mixes.

CCL's additional submissions

5. Prior to the Secretary filing his submissions, CCL had amended its opportunities calculations to reflect the 2017 game rule change for Electronic Baccarat. Taking the increased game speed into account, CCL submitted that the proposed game mixes would offer more casino gambling opportunities than shown in the calculations attached to its initial application, but fewer opportunities than game mix A, as follows:

Game mix	Player spaces	Amended Overall opportunities
A	718	19214
BQ	696	15142
BR	690	15709
BS	690	15478
BT	676	14848
BU	690	15100
BV	704	16344
BW	663	15331
BX	669	14995
BY	683	15399
BZ	670	14754
CA	689	15063
CB	669	14764

6. CCL filed submissions in reply to the Secretary's submissions, acknowledging the 2017 rule changes for Electronic Baccarat, and accepting that it would be preferable for the proposed game mixes to state that they comprised 36 games when it permits deployment of both Electronic Baccarat and Electronic Roulette at the same time.
7. CCL disputed the Secretary's submission that the appropriate game speed for electronic games in game mixes B-BP should be kept at 18, rather than 29, as these game mixes permit only Electronic Roulette. CCL pointed out that, under the proposed game mixes, it can deploy either Electronic Baccarat or Electronic Roulette, so the game speed calculation should use 29 rather than 18 to reflect for the potential to use the faster game of Electronic Baccarat.

Analysis

8. CCL currently has approval to deploy game mixes A-BP at the Christchurch casino and now seeks approval to deploy 12 new game mixes, BQ-CB. If approved, game mixes BQ-BV will allow one game of either Electronic Baccarat or Electronic Roulette, while game mixes BW-CB will permit both games to be played at the same time from a single physical gaming table.
9. The Commission's general approach for approving new game mixes is to compare what is proposed with what is currently permitted, including the approved game mix which provides the most opportunities for casino gambling, and to form a view, in the round, on whether they will increase opportunities for casino gambling. The Commission makes an assessment in the round, on a common-sense comparative basis, rather than by calculating opportunities based upon a formula, or tables of data.

10. CCL initially provided a table of data in support of its application, but subsequently updated it in order to take account of a change to the game rules for Electronic Baccarat in 2017, which had the effect of increasing the electronically controlled playing speed of that game. The Commission appreciates CCL's corrected data but as noted above, its assessment is made in the round, not by the application of a formula or tables of data.
11. In that regard, and contrary to what was suggested in the Secretary's submissions, there are no tabulated accepted rates of play in any of the existing approved game mixes to be updated (although the Commission observes that electronic speed control over fixed terminals provides a more dependable basis for comparison of game speed differences than much of the other comparative speed information available for table games).
12. Having regard to the information before it, including the number of player spaces in each current and proposed game mix, the Commission was satisfied, in the round, that none of the proposed game mixes would have the effect of permitting an increase in the opportunities for casino gambling. The game speed increase affects a maximum of 20 player places in total.
13. Although CCL's application raised no issues in relation to casino gambling opportunities, other issues were identified by the parties in their submissions. CCL submitted that game mixes BW-CB involve only 35 tables being deployed (rather than the licence condition maximum of 36). That appears to be based on its submission on the earlier application which led to decision GC17/20 that CCL would be able to offer both Electronic Baccarat and Electronic Roulette from a single physical table and count both as a single table game. In that application, CCL sought approval to deploy a gaming table which offered both Electronic Roulette and Electronic Baccarat, and submitted that doing so would not breach the condition fixing the maximum number of gaming tables.
14. The Commission declined that application, concluding that the proposal would result in two gaming tables being deployed from a single physical table and that unless one of the casino's other gaming tables was removed from the game mixes, CCL would be in breach of licence condition 6 of its operator's licence, which caps the number of table games at 36.
15. At paragraphs 49-51 of decision GC17/20, the Commission stated as follows:
 49. CCL has indicated that it is expecting to be able to replace an SATG Roulette table with an SATG table that deploys both electronic Baccarat and electronic Roulette and to connect both to a common set of SATG terminals. It contends that doing so would result in the deployment of only a single table game. The Commission does not agree. Following the reasoning in decision GC04/09, by analogy, where two games (electronic Roulette and electronic Baccarat) are deployed from the same table, the manual aspect of each and their associated terminals would constitute a separate table game, even if the opportunities were not increased because each player could only play one game at a time. That is the essential difference between what is permitted (and done) at the Auckland Casino and what CCL wishes to do. SKYCITY Auckland has 4 SATG tables and when it offers electronic Baccarat and electronic Roulette, it counts each table game as a separate game for the purpose of calculating the total number of table games. In contrast, CCL wants to count its deployment of both electronic Baccarat and electronic Roulette at the same time as only one gaming table in its game mixes.

50. What CCL is seeking in reality is not a new game mix comprising 36 table games but a new game mix which would bring the total number of table games to 37, one more than permitted by condition 6 of its operator's licence. Accordingly, CCL would need to seek appropriate amendments to its licence, not simply a new approved game mix.
 51. CCL has attempted to conflate whether there is an increase in gambling opportunities with the maximum number of gaming tables permitted. They are separate considerations controlled by different mechanisms. It may be possible to increase the total number of gaming tables without increasing gambling opportunities (as would be the case here because the same 20 terminals would be used) but doing so would breach condition 6. As matters stand, CCL could be permitted to offer both electronic Baccarat and electronic Roulette to a common set of terminals at the same time only by removing another table game from the relevant game mixes.
16. In order to avoid a breach of condition 6, CCL now proposes to deploy only 35 physical tables in the six game mixes which offer both Electronic Baccarat and Electronic Roulette. However, as the Secretary noted, although only 35 physical tables will be deployed, CCL will be offering 36 table games because one table will deploy both Electronic Baccarat and Electronic Roulette. The Commission agrees with the Secretary that the game mix Annex should reflect this number. The Commission has amended game mixes BW-CP to reflect the deployment of two table games for Electronic Baccarat and Electronic Roulette.
 17. The Secretary also suggested that other casinos should have their game mix Annexes amended to reflect the 2017 Game Rule change and that game mixes B-BP should record the game speed of 18 games every 15 minutes (rather than 29) because these game mixes offer only Electronic Roulette, which was unaffected by the 2017 rule change.
 18. As to the first of those suggestions, condition 10 of the CCL operator's licence, in common with other operator's licences, requires prior approval by the Commission of the use of changes to table game rules which create new wagering opportunities. The condition was added to all casino operator's licences following decision GC17/05. As new wagering opportunities include a game rule change that increases the permitted speed of an electronic table game, the Commission had expected that all operators would have sought approval before implementing the speed increase. Nevertheless, it agrees that all casino game mixes should be reviewed in the light of the 2017 rule change

19. In relation to the second suggestion, CCL is correct that, under game mixes B-BP, it can deploy either Electronic Baccarat or Electronic Roulette, rather than only Electronic Roulette as the Secretary submitted, and the opportunities assessment should assume deployment of the faster game. However, as indicated above, as game mixes do not record game speeds, there is no need to amend the proposed game mixes in that regard.

Decision

20. The Commission approved a new game mix Annex, under condition 9 of CCL's operator's licence for Christchurch casino. The new Annex is attached.

Right of appeal

21. Pursuant to section 235 of the Act, a person affected by this decision may appeal that decision to the High Court. An appeal must be made within 15 working days of the date of notice of the Commission's decision, or any longer period that the High Court may allow.
